The thoughts, ideas and opinions are aims of the freedom of speech, a wide concept within the believes and value judgements have to be included. While the right of the freedom of the press protects the free communication of truthful events that can be considered news. In this work, through the analysis of the jurisprudence, the practical approaches of the analysis of the complicated dialectics between the freedom of speech and information, and the citizen security and public order with the goal of remembering that "the main freedom (the freedom of speech and information) as the other rights, is not absolute", are established.

In: Eleria, 0, 19-34

In the present article are studied the characteristics of the right of self-determination of the peoples, always from the international law view. With this purpose, on one hand, the historic events and contents of such law, doing reference to four of the last decolonized processes (Namibia, Palestina, Sahara and Timor Oriental), are analysed. And on the other hand, as a consequence of the happened changes in Europe during the last decade, it is discussed the possibility that we are facing a new concept of the right of self-determination of the peoples.

Erkoreka, Josu I. (HAEE/IVAP. Adriano VI, 20-2º. 01008 Gasteiz): Euskara Euskal Administrazioetan; erabilera arautzeari aurpegi emateko bideak (The Basque Language in the Basque administrations; guidelines for the regularization of its use) (Orig. Eu)

In: Eleria, 0, 35-54

The work deals with some reflections about the use of the languages in the public administrations. After having verified the fact that most of the Basque administrative organizations lack of a regulation that orders the internal use of the co-official languages -according to what is shown by the work, is a source of no a few problems-, some of the most spread ambiguities in the matter are explained and the different models, that could be assumed by a hypothetical rule which would tried to establish the system use of the languages in the intra-administrative scope, illustrating each of them with real examples taken from the Comparative Law.
