Abstract: The aim of the Doctoral Thesis is to analyse Basque society at the beginning of the 21st century. For this purpose, we ask the question "how is Basque identity built", responding to discourses-practices of young people on Facebook through digital ethnography. In addition to ratifying the importance of the social dimension and the ideas of different community models, we propose the concept of a digital country to understand Basque identity, community and society built on a foundation of both geographical and symbolic borders, with constant emphasis on the importance of the Basque State.

Key Words: Basque identity. Digital country. Digital ethnography. Internet. Community. Basque State.

Abstract: Taking as a starting point the relationship between the Nervous System and the Immune System, we study the neurophysiological mechanisms through which psychological factors can have an impact on the development of a disease, mainly cancer. Likewise, we explain how inflammatory processes derived from the state of the disease can have an impact on brain activity and produce depressive behaviour.

Key Words: Stress. Depression. Cancer. Cytokines. Inflammation. Monoamines. Procedure. Psychoneuroimmunology.

In: Rev. int. estud. vascos. 61, 1, 66-100

Abstract: We defend the representativeness of philosophical thought and discuss the focus on limits in philosophy. We discuss the limits of knowledge and Zeno's paradoxes (The Tortoise and Achilles, Sorites). We bring to light Foucault's error on the limits of rationality. And focus on the Internet's essential determination through the concept of limits. Through Hegel's idea of the communicability of limits we determine philosophy itself as a limit.

Key Words: Limit. Concept of philosophy. Image. Hegel. Zeno. Foucault. Internet.
