Defence for the Defenceless

A far-sighted plan, prepared by The Salvation Army in 1908, to provide free legal defence for the poor, was part of William Booth's greater plan—to defend them from misery and despair.

Through the years, the Army has resolutely pioneered and developed many social welfare schemes. Such work it has always believed to be an essential expression of practical Christianity. Recent outstanding achievements are the homes for wayward children, and the "Mayflower" Training Home for neglectful mothers, the first of its kind in Britain.

In developing new schemes and maintaining established activities, The Salvation Army depends upon individual generosity. Donations and bequests are earnestly sought. For further information write to General Albert Orsborn, 101, Queen Victoria Street, London, E.C.4.

'SERVANTS OF ALL'...

SUCH was the uncompromising description of The Salvation Army given by its own founder, William Booth. The designation sums up the purpose and inspiration which is basic to the service of Salvationists in all parts of the world. Battling against sickness, vice, squalor, poverty, overcrowding, loneliness, and despair, their work knows no end.

The Army is dependent on your generous co-operation. Donations and bequests are earnestly sought. For further information write to General Albert Orsborn, 113 Queen Victoria Street, London, E.C.4.
