COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT IN URBAN AREAS

A study of the applicability in urban areas of the techniques of community development, designed to bring into focus the various kinds of experience gained from activities already carried out in this field and to assist field workers in different settings. The setting for urban community development and the urban traits pertinent to community development are examined. Collaboration with municipalities and participation in the development of housing and industry are discussed. The study includes an analysis of the activities of community and neighbourhood centres for popular action and of community and neighbourhood associations.
